

Check Out @ Your Service for Your Immediate Information Needs

We may be past the shopping season, but there's still something inviting about the phrase "one stop shopping." When it comes to shopping for the kind of information you need every day, did you know that the Metropolitan Library System web site is a good place to start? In fact, it may be the only virtual stop you'll need to make. On our webpage, www.metrolibrary.org, look for "Quick Links." Now let your eyes skim down the page until you get to "@ Your Service" and click. You'll be amazed at the bounty of information we've corralled for you all in one place.

You know that at some point during the day you're going to need to know about the local weather for one of two reasons: either you're going to have to venture out into it, or you're going to find yourself in a conversation about it. You know it's true. What kind of Oklahoman can go a full 24 hours without talking/laughing/complaining/wondering about our crazy weather?

@ Your Service can take you directly to the Weather Channel website, specifically to the Oklahoma section. You can find out whether or not you're going to need a sweater today, and check out the 10 day forecast.

Want to scan the headlines during your lunch break? Check the National News section, with reports from some of the world's most respected news sources, including CNN, the BBC, and The New York Times. Local news is also available from KFOR, NewsOK, The Black Chronicle, and KOCO.

Need to get to an Oklahoma County, City or state website? We link you to them with a single click. We can also connect you to government documents, tax forms, USPS, UPS, FED X, The New York Times Bestseller List, and Merriam Webster's Dictionary and Thesaurus.

Looking for something to do next Saturday? Pass through @ Your Service and find links connecting you to Bricktown, The Ford Center, The Oklahoma Civic Center, as well as movie and restaurant guides.

Hey, did you fall asleep during the game on TV last night and now you wonder who won? Go to our Sports section.

Need more than one bit of quick data? Yeah, we're the ones who have it all under a single roof for one stop information shopping, and it's all easy to get to. Make www.metrolibrary.org/atyourservice.htm your home page.

So what are you waiting for? Start shopping!
